

Long and winding road to top prize

NICE WORK: Sharpe Bros workers in front of their choice, Silent City.

THE most eagerly awaited award in the Gosford Art Prize, the Sharpe Bros Roadworkers Prize, has been announced and not surprisingly the winner features plenty of bitumen. Huang He's work, Silent City, got the thumbs-up from the boys. The painting is of a dark and brooding city street scene, something that no doubt caught the eye of the 10 Sharpe Bros workers who were chosen to judge the award.

STILL on roads, and our faith in the electronic roadside screens that warn motorists to slow down during roadworks on The Entrance Road was dented this week when a queue of long-stationary vehicles was "clocked" at 44 kmh.